Deliberate Effort to Declare Support for Knowles' Program

JOHN WYNGAARD
Staff Writer

CROSSE—The Republican organization convention today will test whether the party which started its recovery from the narrow loss in last fall can maintain its unity of purpose and spirit in the hard battles with the Democratic Party in the state elections last night as delegates gathered here to elect the party's nominees for the 1966 campaign.

There are also a few hints of scattered opposition of the governor's intention to put his own man in charge of the party machinery in preparation for the 1966 campaign.

Fish for Chairman

Knowles wants Ody Fish of Hartland, his manager in the narrowly won 1964 election, to succeed Talbot Peterson of Appleton, who is retiring voluntarily. Fish will almost surely be chosen but Peterson is among those able to restrain his enthusiasm about the idea and the method.

In his farewell speech prepared for delivery today, the retiring chairman said he believes in improving the party machinery but that "we cannot under any circumstances allow it to drift away from control by the rank and file."

That could be interpreted as a dissent from the idea that the Republican governor should have the right to choose the party organization manager.

Principal business of this convention is the declaration of party principles in resolutions carefully screened in advance by a committee that deliberated without publicity.

Printed copies of the report were given to delegates and showed the concerted effort to

Week End to Budget Stall

Republicans Have Measure Slapping Democratic Solons

JOHN IGLEHART
Staff Writer

CROSSE (AP)—Wisconsin Republicans opened one of their state non-election year conventions in history today, asking delegates to adopt a resolution demanding that Democrats stall their stalling on a budget compromise.

The resolution was one of 23 resolutions were slated to be considered during their one-day meeting which party officials said had nearly 2,000 persons.

A key was an apt description of pre-convention activity last night. The emphasis was on stalling. The county chair, held a dinner and re-elected Donald Macrae of Eau Claire as leader.

A resolution dealing with the budget was drawn up by committee and condemned Democrats for stalling on budget tax measures. It concluded that the state's present budget gap "is largely the result of non-recurring revenues upon the Legislature by Democratic administration."

Delegates also were asked to approve resolutions calling for a constitutional convention to place the governor and lieutenant governor on a single ballot. The two offices now are in separate ballots.

Kinac Straits Disaster

Boats and Planes Seek Survivors of Collision

CKINAW CITY, Mich.—Boats and planes searched today for more survivors of Friday's freighter collision but rescue workers believed that the seven seamen missing had perished in the 11 waters of the Straits of Mackinac.

Three men were known dead result of the mishap in the crowded straits, the narrow channel of water which separates Michigan's two peninsulas.

One could survive the water this long," said Douglas Lentini, chief of search at Cheboygan Community hospital where five injured men were treated.

Cedarville Crew

The victims were members of the 35-man crew of the U.S. Corp.'s 588-foot Cedarville, a testone carrier.

Coast Guard inquiry was held for today at Sault Ste. Marie.

The Cedarville and the 424-Norwegian freighter Topdalsford collided in thick fog miles east of here.

Fog was so thick that visibility was reported at barely 50 feet.

A spokesman for the Mackinac Bridge Authority said the Cedarville sent a radio "May Day" distress call at 10:10 a.m. and she sank at 10:19.

The Topdalsford, with her bow reported smashed, anchored for examination and then proceeded to Sault Ste. Marie.

Attorney Promises

Klansman Will be Retried for Murder

HAYNEVILLE, Ala. (AP)—A judge here today promised to call for a new trial for a Klansman charged with slaying a civil rights worker.

The judge said he expects the Alabama's Atty. Gen. Richmond Flowers says a Ku Klux Klan member whose murder trial ended in a deadlocked jury will be retried again.

And, he said, "when people realize that this is not going to be swept under the rug as just another civil rights incident, that this is a murder trial, we may get a conviction next time."

Free on Bond

Collie Leroy Wilkins Jr., 21, of Fairfield, Ala., was free on bonds totaling $60,000 after a jury trying him in State Court for the killing of a white woman, a civil rights demonstrator failed Friday to agree on a verdict.

Ten of the 12 male jurors had voted for conviction. The other two held out for acquittal. Circuit Judge T. Werth Thagard declared a mistrial 24 hours and 20 minutes after he had put the life of Wilkins in the jury's hands.

The first-degree murder charge could have brought the death penalty.

Flowers, the state's chief

Two other Klan members also charged with slaying Viola Liuzzo of Detroit, Mich., are awaiting trial. The charges against them also have been carried over to the September term. Those defendants are Eugene Thomas, 42, and William Orville Eaton, 41, both of Bessemer, Ala.

The three Klansmen also are under federal indictment on civil rights charges. They are free on $50,000 bond each on the federal indictments and $10,000 on the first-degree murder counts in State Court. No trial date has been set on the federal charges.

Flowers expressed belief that even though the jury went home without a verdict in Wilkins' trial, it may serve as a deterrent to Klan members bent on

More Money for Disaster Loans May be Approved

WASHINGTON (AP)—Emergency legislation to authorize an additional $50 million of Small Business Administration loans and other aid for victims of recent Midwest flood and tornado disasters was passed by voice vote in the Senate Friday and sent to the House.

The aid would be earmarked for small business enterprises and home owners. Its continuing provisions would authorize similar aid for victims of future national disasters.

Sen. William Proxmire, D-Mich., its floor manager, explained that the bill would extend from 20 to 30 years the period for repayment of disaster loans provided by SBA. It also would authorize a five-year moratorium on the payment of principal and interest, a discretion of the SBA administrator, in cases of extreme hardship.

Wide Channel Is Taming Mississippi Below St. Louis

EAST ST. LOUIS, Ill. (AP)—The Mississippi River's high water reached the St. Louis area today, where it was no longer the all-time record flood. From here southward, the mammoth runoff has plenty of room in its channel and ample backwater reservoirs.

A crest of 25.7 feet was expected during the day at St. Louis, more than four feet below the flood stage of 30 feet Friday night St. Louis reported a reading of 25.6.

North of St. Louis as far as Keokuk, Iowa, the river would precede into its banks by May 18, at all points north of St. Louis.

East Germans, Soviets Join For Parade

Together First Time to Observe Defeat of Nazis

BERLIN (AP)—Thousands of East German and Soviet troops joined forces for the first time to stage a joint military parade today through downtown East Berlin's Marx-Engels Square.

The five-mile-long parade, held in conjunction with celebrations commemorating the 20th anniversary of the defeat of the Nazis, displayed no new pieces of military hardware.

Top ranking world Communist leaders on hand to review the parade included Soviet Premier Alexei N. Kosygin, Polish Premier Josef Cyrankiewicz, East German Communist party leader Walter Ulbricht plus Red army Marshals Vassily Chukov and Vassily Sokolovsky, both of whom participated in the World War II capture of Berlin.

The parade, featuring goose-stepping East German soldiers led by a 250-pound drum major and Russian soldiers riding in trucks and tanks, started with a 21-gun salute fired by howitzers.

While the parade was in progress, U.S. Army helicopters flew high over West Berlin territory, sufficiently near the border to observe the proceedings.

The Western Allies are expected to lodge a protest with the Soviet Union, Britain and France consider all of Berlin, East and West, an occupied city and therefore out of bounds for East German troops.

Two Survivors

Called "Tony," Imbert is one of two survivors of the band of plotters who ambushed and killed Generalissimo Rafael Leandros Trujillo in 1961. His status as a result of the Trujillo assassination is regarded as significant in the loyalist move to broaden the area for a possible agreement with the rebels.

Anti-War Pickets Disrupt Ceremony

NEW YORK (AP)—Locking arms before a brigade of Columbia University's Naval Reserve unit, some 200 antiwar demonstrators staged a stand-in Friday and forced cancellation of the training corps' annual awards ceremony.

The demonstrators defied an order by Dr. Grayson Kirk, president of the university, banning disruptive picketing.

Fire Dances in Street

2 Firemen Hurt by Explosion in Sewer

BY RAY PY
Post-Crescent Staff Writer

An explosion of natural gas accumulated in an underground sewer at Packard and Bennett streets blew a manhole cover and into the air about 4:45 p.m. heat.

Friday and injured two firemen standing nearby. Source of the ignition is unknown.

Authorities said firemen Glen Swick, 35, and James Coonen, 25, were struck by the manhole cover and knocked to the ground by the concussion.

Both are in good condition at St. Elizabeth Hospital where tests are being conducted to determine the extent of their injuries.

Four fire companies and emergency crews of the Wisconsin Michigan Power Co. had been called to the intersection shortly after 4 p.m. when nearby residents discovered what they described as "flames dancing in the streets."

The flames, fed by a natural gas leak under the intersection, were contained in a 30 foot strip of gravel covering recent sewer construction projects in the area.

Leak Discovered

Power company officials today said the leak in the pipe was discovered before 9 p.m. hawks from the carriers Coral Friday and has been attributed to a break in a pipe caused, officials say, by sewer construction machinery.

The gas, leaking from the pipe, followed an "easy access" to the surface through the manhole and was apparently ignited by burning flare air force Skyraiders hit the site near the construction air base at Dong Hoi air field near the frontier. A spokesman did not say whether any Communist aircraft were on the ground.

Family Evacuated

Merle Alix, 834 1/2 W. Packard St., evacuated his family from his second floor living quarters when his wife spotted the flames from the second floor bedroom. Mrs. Alix said she had smelled gas "about one-half hour before she saw the flames."

Firemen and power company crews stood by at the intersection for several minutes to allow the sleeping gas to burn out. It was while the firemen were waiting for the flames to go down that the sewer, about 40 feet south of the flames,

Bombers in Five Raids on N. Viet Nam

SAIGON, South Viet Nam. (AP)—More than 160 U.S. Air Force and Navy planes staged five raids against military targets and road communications in North Viet Nam today, raining more than 230 tons of bombs against a variety of targets.

The largest raid was carried out by 40 U.S. Navy A4 Skyhawks from the carriers Coral Friday and has been attributed to a break in a pipe caused, officials say, by sewer construction machinery.

The gas, leaking from the pipe, followed an "easy access" to the surface through the manhole and was apparently ignited by burning flare air force Skyraiders hit the site near the construction air base at Dong Hoi air field near the frontier. Search for Brother

May be Ended by
Viet Cong Capture

SAIGON, South Viet Nam (AP)—A merchant marine officer from California who went back into the jungle two weeks ago to try to find his missing pilot brother is now apparently a prisoner of the Viet Cong.

A 21-year-old Vietnamese girl student who went along with him is also believed in Communist hands.

Donald Dawson, 25-year-old civilian maritime officer of Costa Mesa, Calif., came to South Viet Nam last January after learning that his brother, U.S. Army Lt. Daniel L. Dawson, 27, pilot of a spotter plane, went down over the jungle two months earlier and had not been heard from.

President's Anniversary Speech U. S. Plans Atlantic Partnership Despite Opposition by DeGaulle

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Johnson has told Charles de Gaulle the United States will go ahead with plans to weld an Atlantic partnership—whether France stands aloof or not.

Though Johnson mentioned neither the French president nor France by name, there was no doubt about his intended target when he said Friday, "There are some efforts today to replace partnership with suspicion, and the drive toward unity with a policy of division."

"We will go all together if we can. But if one of us cannot join in a common venture, it will not stand in the way of the rest of us."

The President chose the 20th anniversary of the end of World War II in Europe for what aides called his first major policy speech on Europe since his inauguration Jan. 20. The Early Bird communications satellite carried the address across the Atlantic, and it was broadcast to the American people.

In outlining a six-point agenda of "urgent and unfinished business" for the Atlantic community, Johnson said, "First we must hasten the slow erosion of the Iron Curtain."

"We must work toward an agreement with the Soviet Union," he said. "Our firmness in danger has shown that the door to conquest in the West is forever closed. Thus, the door to peaceful settlement is now open."

Provide each player with a complete packet of these slips, each packet containing the names of all the countries. To tell one player's slips from those of other players, the slips of one packet may be printed with green crayon, whereas those of another packet may be printed with blue and so on.

Spread the world map flat on the table. Have the players take positions around the map. At the signal for the game to start, the players rush to place their slips on the proper countries. The first player to place his slip on a country wins that country to his cause. No other player may place a slip there.

The game ends when all the countries have been won in this manner. The player who has placed the most slips correctly is the winner of the game.

Let's EXPLORE YOUR MIND

By Sylvanus M. Duvall, Ph.D. and Evelyn M. Duvall, Ph.D.

HOW MANY OF TODAY'S 17 YEAR OLDS ARE IN SCHOOL? 50% 65% 80%

80 per cent. In spite of all the concern about school drop-outs, more young people are continuing in school than ever before. Today eight out of ten 17-year-olds are in school, up from only 68 per cent as recently as 1950. This better schooling will help prepare them for the kinds of jobs opening up in today's fast-moving economy, according to a recent report in the "Wall Street Journal." More education makes sense today—for the individual and for society as a whole.

Is poverty really serious in America? Yes — No
Yes, says author Michael Harrington. The trouble is that it has become less visible. The slums are less obvious, partly due to housing projects. The poor dress like everyone else. And, most Americans keep to the highways of life and have no idea of what goes on in the by-ways. As a result, people tend to feel that only a relatively few are really poor, and those few are being amply cared for by programs of public relief.

The greatest poems have yet to be written. True — False
False, at least as far as the immediate future is concerned. It is commonly felt that the poetry of this age has failed to do what poetry should do. This is to express our culture; portray our society; probe and reflect the hopes, the wishes and the feelings of people today. Will any people ever do it better for any age than men like Homer, Dante, Milton, Goethe, Omar Khayyam and some of the Psalmists have done for their age and time? What do you think?

MADISON (AP) — Cheddar cheese prices were 4 cent lower while prices on other styles were unchanged this week, the Agricultural Marketing Service reported today.

Swiss cheese prices were unchanged at Wisconsin assembling points and unchanged to 1/2 cent lower at major consuming centers. Constitution of the United States. Entitled "Inquiry," the program will be heard on WAPL every Sunday afternoon at 1:30 starting tomorrow.

Produced in Chicago, each program will present distinguished Americans—jurists, executives, legislators, authors—in interviews concerning specific phases and implications of the United States Constitution.

"Is it good to have a written Constitution?" "Was the Bill of Rights necessary?" "How can we justify the Fifth Amendment?" "What are the rights of the states?" These are typical of the questions asked and considered in the 13-week series.

All Notables
Persons interviewed will include Tom C. Clark, associate justice of the Supreme Court; Sen. Birch Bayh of Indiana; Sen. Paul H. Douglas of Illinois; Alfred Schweppé, chairman, Civil Rights Committee, American Bar Association, and Gene Smith, author of "When the Cheering Stopped."

Dr. Bergen Evans, noted commentator and educator of Northwestern University, and Chicago columnist, Francis Coughlin, will act as co-moderators on the series which is being presented as a public service to the community.

Plans are being made to make the taped interviews available to schools following completion of the series.

Well, Broadway finally has come up with something that was acceptable to the august Pulitzer Prize committee. After ignoring or rejecting the living theater for two years, the committee agreed to honor a playwright this year.

Music is now the step-child of the arts. The committee couldn't find anything it considered worthwhile for the second straight year.

The drama award, as you most likely have read, went to Frank D. Gilroy for his "The Subject Was Roses." There can be no argument about the choice.

Meaningful Drama
The drama is a meaningful one for our times as it examines the conflict between two generations' views of values. It also probes the conflict into which the "countdowns" of the present younger generation can lead.

Trick Diets Usually Temporarily Effective

BY JOSEPH MOLNER, M.D.
Dear Dr. Molner, Several of our friends are now attempting to lose weight by the carbohydrate method. If the number of calories of carbohydrate is kept low, the dieters can eat or drink anything.

This doesn't seem reasonable to me, as the calorie content of foods other than carbohydrates, like cake, bread, sugar in its various forms, etc.) that he says, "Ah, I've lost X pounds, so I can afford spaghetti once a week."

Pretty soon he's back where he started.

Then, when somebody comes along with some other kind of a trick diet, he goes through the performance all over again.

Why? Search me, except that hope springs eternal in the human breast — especially in the breast of somebody who wants to get thin but not at the expense of cutting down his calories from all sources.

Silly, isn't it?

Dear Dr. Molner: Please explain this word "Cholechoduodenostomy" — V. L. H.

Let's start with some anatomy. There is a common bile duct which carries bile from the liver and from the gall bladder to the duodenum, or first portion of the small intestine. Bile is one of the necessary digestive juices.

Sometimes, because of obstruction at the point at which the duct connects to the duodenum, it is necessary to bypass the obstruction and connect the common duct to a different (but nearby) part of the duodenum. This allows the bile to flow and reduction of carbohydrates in this case, but jaundice.

Now, if you can persuade the somebody to give up (or almost give up) some particular type of food, he'll stick to that restrictive diet. He'll eat a lot less flow of bile and reduction of carbohydrates in this case, but jaundice.

He'll tend to go on eating or drinking about the same amount of other things as formerly.

(Copyright, 1965)

He'll follow his past habits, that is. So he may actually lose some weight.

But sooner or later one of two things happens. He gradually begins to increase the amount of foods other than carbohydrates. Or, and this is more likely, I think, he begins to get so hungry for some of the missing carbohydrates (spaghetti, cake, bread, sugar in its various forms, etc.) that he says, "Ah, I've lost X pounds, so I can afford spaghetti once a week."

Pretty soon he's back where he started.

Then, when somebody comes along with some other kind of a trick diet, he goes through the performance all over again.

Why? Search me, except that hope springs eternal in the human breast — especially in the breast of somebody who wants to get thin but not at the expense of cutting down his calories from all sources.

Silly, isn't it?

Dear Dr. Molner: Please explain this word "Cholechoduodenostomy" — V. L. H.

Let's start with some anatomy. There is a common bile duct which carries bile from the liver and from the gall bladder to the duodenum, or first portion of the small intestine. Bile is one of the necessary digestive juices.

Today's Woes Like Those of Years Gone By

World War I Problems Similar To Those of 1965

BY DAVID LAWRENCE
WASHINGTON—Do international problems really change very much in a half-century? Are the basic issues that inflame the passions of peoples around the globe any different now than they were five decades ago?

Lawrence

Without warning the "Lusitania" an unarmed merchant vessel of a British steamship company, and caused the death of 1,198 persons, of whom 124 were Americans.

The whole world stood aghast at this act of brutality. The European war had begun the year before, and the United States was carefully preserving its neutrality. Yet innocent citizens of this and other countries were wiped out in a few minutes. The theory behind such sinkings was that they would discourage the shipment of supplies to Great Britain and France.

The action was in total disregard of international law and in defiance of warning which the United States had issued to the belligerent powers not to endanger American lives and property on the high seas.

To torpedo unarmed vessels without warning was contrary also to the accepted rules of civilized warfare.

Perplexing Problem

Most perplexing of all was the problem which faced President Wilson. From Friday to Monday, no word came from the White House except that a protest note was being prepared. Monday, May 10, however, Mr. Wilson made a speech in Philadelphia in which he conveyed an impression of restraint. Although he made no explicit mention of the "Lusitania" tragedy, many of his listeners believed that he was referring to the sinking of the ship when he said:

"The example of America must be a special example. The example of America must be the example not merely of peace because it will not fight, but of peace because peace is the healing and elevating influence of the world and strife is not. There is such a thing as a man being too proud to fight. There is such a thing as a nation being so right that it does not need to conquer others but force that it is right."

These remarks caused a wave of protest inside the United States, although those who were on the pacifist side applauded enthusiastically. But in the next few weeks public opinion developed heavily in favor of the idea that the United States would take a firm and resolute position because the phrase "too proud to fight" had been misconstrued abroad.

Strange Note

Consequently the second American note, which was sent June 9, was so strong that the secretary of state, William Jennings Bryan, considered it too belligerent and resigned. The net effect of the American stand, however, was to prevent a recurrence of such episodes as the sinking of the "Lusitania." President Wilson was elected in 1916 as many of his political supporters published the slogan "He kept us out of war."

But Feb. 1, 1917, the Berlin government announced that it was resuming unrestricted submarine warfare against all neutral and belligerent shipping. The belief evidently prevailed in the German high command that the European war could be won by the Kaiser's forces before the United States could mobilize its troops and get them over seas to resume the Western allies.

Maintenance Duties Canceled Until Sheriff Gets Notice He Is Not Liable for Any Injuries

Outagamie County jail prisoners, who have traditionally helped out in the maintenance of the courthouse Wednesday night were called off their jobs by Sheriff Calvin Spice who said he is awaiting written understanding that he is not liable for injuries the prisoners may receive.

Corporation Counsel A. W. Ponath said an opinion solicited Thursday from the state attorney general's office in Madison shows that the county or the sheriff could very well be liable for any injuries the prisoners receive from their duties in the courthouse.

Spice today said he is keeping his prisoners "locked up" until he receives written clarification.

St. Norbert Concert Stars Oratorio

Dr. Joseph Cohen of Music Department Composer of Work

WEST DE PERE—An adaptation of David and Goliath written for band and chorus and the appearance of the Chamber Singers will highlight the St. Norbert College music department spring concert Tuesday.

Concert time is 8:15 p.m. in the Hall of Fine Arts.

David and Goliath, an oratorio composed by Dr. Joseph Cohen of the college music department, will be explained by means of visual and audio aids before it is performed. Dr. Cohen has prepared a short resume of the biblical story, which will be shown on slides and narrated.

The oratorio, a composition of religious text performed in concert without scenery by solo voices, chorus and band, was in the making for the past year. Dr. Cohen selected the story for its beautiful poetry.

Two Soloists

Marshall Moss, instructor in voice in the college music department, will sing Goliath, and Roger Scanlon, 1964 St. Norbert music major graduate, will sing David.

Dr. Cohen produced a ballet at Texas Christian University, where he received his master's degree, and composed a symphony at the University of Rochester, Eastman School of Music, where he earned his doctorate.

David and Goliath will be conducted by Dudley Bridger, also director of the Chamber Singers. The Singers will present a varied program, ranging from religious to spiritual to folk.

Jail Escapee Enters Plea Of Not Guilty

OSHKOSH — Roy Holland, 23, Oshkosh, pleaded innocent to a charge of escaping from the Winnebago County jail Sunday, before Judge James Sitter in Winnebago County Court Friday.

Holland and three companions were charged with escape following an incident Sunday.

Holland is currently appealing a six-year sentence on six counts of worthless checks and his innocent plea today, coupled with his demand for a 12-man jury trial, will consolidate both actions in circuit court.

The other three defendants were charged with crimes but were not under sentence. Zimmerman is charged with auto theft. Nast with two counts of reckless conduct regardless of human life and Hoppe with burglary.

Bonds of $5,000 each were continued by Judge Sitter.

Man Placed on Probation in Shooting After Bar Scuffle

OSHKOSH — Gerald K. LaBarre, 28, Chicago, was placed on one year's probation by Judge James Sitter in Winnebago County Court Thursday on a charge of reckless use of firearms resulting from the April 23 shooting of Mathias Salzrieder, 19, Oshkosh.

LaBarre pleaded no contest to the charge Salzrieder was shot in the left leg at a scuffle at the Beer Garden, W. Sixth Avenue and Ohio Street by a bullet from LaBarre's 45 caliber pistol. Salzrieder was released from Mercy Hospital shortly after the shooting.

LaBarre's attorney, Jack D. Steinhilber, Oshkosh, told Judge Sitter, "in this case we have an accidental shooting — no doubt about it." He then requested the probation which the judge granted.

'Progressive Conservatism' GOP Origin, Says Keynoter

Knowles, Michigan Woman, Tell Republicans to Broaden Party

BY JAMES BARTELT
Post-Crescent News Service
LA CROSSE — Gov. Warren Knowles and the keynoter for the state Republican convention, joined Saturday in advising Wisconsin Republicans to broaden the base of their party if they hope to win back ground from the Democrats. The keynoter was Mrs. Kelly Peterson, chairman of the GOP organization in Michigan where Gov. George Romney was re-elected last fall in the face of the landslide against the presidential candidacy of Barry Goldwater. Knowles spoke to an afternoon session.

"We need people with a greater concern for the success of programs that fall within the broad framework of Republican philosophy instead of those with a trance-like fascination with dogma and political theories," Knowles said in his prepared text.

Mrs. Peterson said Republicans should not forget their party was born to represent "progressive conservatism."

"It was born with a belief of freeing the slaves, of free land, and of freedom for the common man, she said.

Republicans Drift
"When the Republican party forges its historic mission, these Republicans drift. They drift into a state of indecision and finally into the Democrat party. However, they are not irrevocably lost," said Mrs. Peterson.

Gov. George Romney has demonstrated that "progressive impulse can be unified with the conservative heritage," she said.

The Republican Party must offer constructive alternatives to the "collectivist and centralized solutions of the Democrats to problems of change," she said.

Today's independents are as yesterday's progressive Republicans. They can once again become active but they must be progressively led, not leashed," said Mrs. Peterson.

Knowles with a similar warning, said a party risks becoming a perpetual minority if it becomes too narrow and provincial.

"The party must mirror our state. It must be broad and diverse as Wisconsin, like our nation, is an inclusive, not an exclusive society. We must deal with human problems, not idealistic or theoretical," Knowles said.

Knowles said his legislative proposals meet this framework and "reflect the needs and wishes of our people." He stressed his efforts toward industrial expansion, the highway safety program, and his program to meet "Wisconsin's crisis in education."

Knowles listed 15 recent examples of industrial expansion, including Fox Valley plans, to underline the topic he has selected as a theme for his administration.

"These are the first 'sprouts' of what I want to see become a rich harvest of industrial development and expansion leading to greater job opportunities and job security for our people," he said.

"We must propose, enact, and execute sound programs that will demonstrate that Republicans get results," he said.

Ordinance Referendum Vote Sept. 14

Proposal Would Make Four Appleton Posts Appointive

The fate of the charter ordinances changing the status of four administrative city positions from elective to appointive will be in the hands of the voters Tuesday, Sept. 14.

It is the date the city council set by a 19-1 vote Wednesday night to hold a special referendum election to settle the controversial question.

Under the law, a three-fourths majority (15 votes) was needed to call the election which will cost an estimated $2,800.

Early Decision

The council's action was a victory for those favoring an early decision on whether the officers of the city clerk, treasurer, assessor and attorney should be appointive by the mayor — subject to council confirmation.

Previously, the Committee for Election by Voters of Appleton City Officials had filed petitions with the city clerk calling for an April 5, 1966 referendum containing the ballot question: "Shall the charter ordinances of the City of Appleton be amended to permit the mayor to appoint (clerk, treasurer, assessor, attorney) pursuant to a charter ordinance adopted by the City Council on March 17?"

City Atty. Frederick E. Froehlich said the statute was clear and the wording of the petition would have to appear on the ballot.

However, the date of the election will be different than that on the petitions.

May 26 Set for Trapper's Trial

New London Man Pleaded Innocent In Waupaca Court

WAUPACA — Hubert Lehman, 46, 121 Warren St., New London, pleaded innocent when he appeared Thursday in Municipal Justice Court to two charges of molesting muskrat traps. Trial was set for May 26 by Justice George Whalen.

Lehman was released after posting a $250 cash bond. The two charges had been dismissed April 9 when Lehman appeared in Municipal Justice Court and pleaded no contest to another charge of molesting traps and failure to properly post a licensed fur farm.

On his no contest plea, Lehman was found guilty of the two charges by Justice Whalen. The other two were dismissed at the recommendation of the district attorney. At that time fines totaling $150 and a 10-day mandatory jail sentence were stayed for five days pending an appeal to circuit court.

The appeal was filed April 14 after which Conservation Department Warden Rex Oatman reissued warrants. They again charged Lehman with the trap molesting charges which had been dismissed.

In addition to the fine and jail sentence, Lehman's right to hunt and trap and his fur farm license were revoked for three years on the Municipal Justice Court's guilty ruling.

The offenses allegedly occurred in November, 1963, in the Town of Mukwa.

'Little Conclave' to Pick Head of Jesuit Order

BY BENNETT M. BOLTON

ROME (AP) — Jesuit electors from around the world will select this weekend the general of the Roman Catholicism's biggest and best-known religious order.

A total of 225 Jesuit priests will be locked inside a square white room down a side street from St. Peter's Square in what amounts to a "little conclave."

Their rules permit only bread and water for the priests during the time it will take to elect the 27th successor to St. Ignatius Loyola.

Delegates from the 62 provinces of the worldwide society of Jesus — Jesuits — will probably require few ballots to find someone in their ranks to replace the Very Rev. Jean Baptist Janssens, the Belgian Jesuit general, who served from 1946 until his death last Oct. 5 at the age of 75, was elected for life on the first ballot.

Limit Office

St. Ignatius in his founding rules declared that the Jesuit general must be chosen for life, but the general chapter called to elect a new general will consider proposals to limit the office.

Some among the 36,000 Jesuits want the term limited to six or seven years.

The meeting, or general chapter, is expected to continue two months. The bulk of that time will be spent going over the society's rules for adjustments to meet the times, discussing contemporary problems affecting Jesuits in various parts of the world and examining topics of the Vatican Ecumenical Council.

The Very Rev. John Swain, a Canadian who is Jesuit vicar general, was named on Father Janssens' deathbed to run the society until a new general is found.

Possible Candidate

Father Swain is among those mentioned as a possibility for election as general. Two Italians also are being discussed — the Rev. Roberto Tucci, editor of the influential Jesuit bi-monthly "La Civiltà Cattolica," and the Rev. Paolo Dezza, past rector of the Pontifical Gregorian University of Rome.

The favorite, however, seems to be a Basque from the same region in Spain where St. Ignatius was born. He is the Very Rev. Pedro Arrupe, Jesuit provincial in Japan.

Father Arrupe, who is in his early 50s, has won a name for running a province of 441 Jesuits from 13 different nations.

Ignatius Loyola, an ex-soldier, founded the Jesuits in 1540. He and eight companions, including St. Francis Xavier, met in a Montmartre church in Paris.

Queen's Visit To Germany Ends Enmity

Elizabeth, Philip Will Start 11-Day Tour May 18

BY JOHN WEYLAND

BONN, Germany (AP) — Queen Elizabeth II's visit to Germany this month will mark the end of a half-century of enmity or lukewarm relations between Britain and Germany.

The queen and Prince Philip on May 18 will start an 11-day tour which is expected to bring out millions of Germans. It will cover the country from north to south and include Berlin, which lies deep within Communist territory, and Hannover, where George I reigned until he was made King of England in 1714.

The king's descendants looked upon Germany as a second home and had close ties with the ruling families of its many principalities. During the last royal state visit in 1909, King Edward VII was embraced at the station by his nephew, Kaiser Wilhelm II.

Disowned Germans

Elizabeth's family disowned its German past when hostile feelings ran high during World War I. No England monarch has set foot in this country during the troubled years that followed.

Now England has decided to make the final gesture of reconciliation by sending its queen among the former enemy.

French President Charles de Gaulle was given a tumultuous reception in September 1962 during his state visit to commemorate French-German reconciliation. Even more enthusiasm was shown in June 1963 for the late President John F. Kennedy. Officials are predicting Queen Elizabeth will receive the greatest reception of them all.

She has the glamour of royalty and tradition, which this pomp-loving country has sorely missed since the Kaiser's abdication. She has close relations with the princely houses of Pfalz, Hannover and Coburg-Gotha and associations with local historical figures, which means the Germans can think of her as one of their own.

German Cast

Chancellor Ludwig Erhard's government is spending $125,000 to make the queen's visit a glittering success.

In the capital the 130-room Petersberg Hotel is being rented for the exclusive use of the royal couple and their entourage. Prime Minister Neville Chamberlain stayed there in 1938 for a meeting with Adolf Hitler preparatory to the signing of the Munich Pact.

President Heinrich Lübke will give the first of many dinners for the queen, introducing her to the highest government officials and the diplomatic corps at Brühl Castle.

Schoolchildren will be given the day off in Bonn and provided with thousands of paper British flags to wave in greeting for the queen's tour of the city.

At the main square, Elizabeth will lay a wreath before the statue of Ludwig van Beethoven, Bonn's most famous son. Queen Victoria unveiled the statue in 1845.

Tourist Ship

The queen will travel in a tourist ship on the Rhine River to Coblenz past the ruins of castles of medieval robber barons and through the Straits of the Lorelei, where legend has it that beautiful maidens lured sailors to their deaths.

A cross-country tour in a special train will take her to Munich, Stuttgart, Salem, Marbach, Cologne, Duisburg, Soest, Hannover and Hamburg.

In Berlin, Elizabeth will see the wall dividing the city. The royal couple will fly into the divided city without a fighter escort. The East German government said it will regard their presence as nonpolitical and will not make trouble.

Judge Van Susteren Is Holy Name Speaker

County Judge Urban Van Susteren will speak at the Mother's Day communion breakfast of the St. Joseph Church Holy Name Society after the 8 a.m. mass.

Mothers and wives have been invited to join the society at church and for the breakfast. Officers will be installed prior to the meeting.

The POWER of FAITH

The Rev. Daniel Conklin is a priest who builds buildings to build souls. Almost single handed, Father Conklin designed, drew plans and built a huge recreation-gymnasium at St. Mary's, the senior seminary in Norwalk, Connecticut, for more than 5,000 Holy Ghost Fathers and Brothers. The 12,000 square feet of floor space is taken up with a gymnasium, stage, game room, music room, study and ham radio room, with which the Fathers maintain communications with their missionaries around the world. The faith of neighbors and friends helped Father Conklin build the estimated $300,000 complex at an actual cost of $42,000.

Father Conklin spent two years in the construction of the center. It will not only be used by the Fathers and seminarians, but is available for civic groups throughout the area to use and enjoy. Father Conklin, during his many years in missions in the Caribbean, has built other structures including a shrine. All of these are monuments to man's faith in God, The Master Builder.

2 Firemen Are Hurt in Blast Of Natural Gas

exploded, injuring the two firemen.

Ralph Kahler, 15, 933 W. Summer St., said about 250 people had been gathered on the sidewalks when the explosion sounded. He said the blast "moved me back" although he estimated he was standing 75 feet away.

Kahler who had followed the fire trucks to the intersection on his bicycle, said he saw the two firemen fall down, "but one got back up right away." He said it was hard to see the two men "because of the dust and rocks and a lot of smoke."

Flames from the manhole shot skyward with enough heat intensity to completely melt a yellow barricade light directly over the manhole. The fire in the manhole lasted only a few seconds, witnesses said.

Kahler said "little kids started screaming and a lot of people ran to their homes." He described the explosion as "scary."

Police Called

Police were called quickly to the area and helped detour crosstown traffic onto other streets. A two block area was barricaded to traffic and only equipment from the power company was allowed to cross the police lines.

Power company workmen had shut down gas in a six block area prior to the explosion. Service to an unestimated number of gas company customers was interrupted.

Power company officials said that power had been restored in the area at 9 p.m. Friday night after the leak had been discovered and repaired. The incident was in no way related to reports of gasoline in city sewers in other sections of town.

The spokesman said it is still unknown what ignited the accumulated natural gas in the sewer. He said it could have been the flames from the gas or "a cigaret or any number of things."

EMPHASIS ON QUALITY

Given a room of expansive dimensions it is quite a simple matter to achieve serenity, but with small rooms it's another story. A good rule to keep in mind is that furniture should always be in scale with the size of the room with each piece carefully selected to function efficiently and to fit comfortably into its allotted space. Too much heavy, bulky furniture gives a small room a busy, cluttered feeling.

Danish modern furniture was wisely selected for the small room sketched above. Though generously proportioned, the clean flowing lines seem to minimize the size of the individual pieces. Emphasis here is on quality.

Sofa frame, chairs and tables have been crafted from Burmese teak — the world's most enduring cabinet wood — with natural oiled finish.

The rich brown tones of the teak dictate the room's color scheme. Pale shades of sandalwood, bronzy gold and beige have been adroitly com-

Shawano Tips Jay '9' to Stay Tied for Lead

Indians Score 3 Unearned Runs in Eighth, Win, 11-8

MENASHA — Shawano forced Menasha into extra innings with back-to-back homers in the top of the seventh, then scored three unearned runs in the eighth to nip the Bluejays, 11-8, in their mid-Eastern Conference game here Friday.

The victory was the Indians' third in four starts and keeps them tied for first. Menasha now has a 2-2 mark.

In all, the victors slammed four homers, but the two biggest were slapped by Marshall Conradt and Dick Hartman to lead off the seventh. It was Hartman's second blow of the game.

All of the eighth inning trouble started with two out. Rudy Bohm was apparently out a steal but the ball was dropped and Conradt followed with a single. Hartman added a double and Vaughn James, a single, three runs scoring.

2-Run Homer Hartman slapped a 2-run homer in the third, and John Perrault swatted a bases-empty clout in the fourth.

Menasha had a big third, scoring seven runs on four hits, three walks and a passed ball after a strikeout. The Jays added their last run in the fourth. They had the bases loaded with one out in the sixth but a double play took James out of the inning.

James went the route for the victors and staggered to the win. He allowed eight hits, struck out seven and walked six.

Dick Sorensen, who relieved Don Steffin after the two seventh-inning homers, was the loser. The Menasha pair gave up 12 hits.

Conradt was the big Jay tormenter at the plate with three singles and a homer. Hartman had two homers and a double and Tom Cotler added two singles.

Brad Yocum and Jerry Akshewicz each had two singles for the Bluejays.

Appleton High School's Bruce Miller won the high jump event in Friday's dual meet against Two Rivers. The Ter-

Terror Track Team Hands Two Rivers 90-28 Setback

Einspahr Nears School Mark in Pole Vault

BY JOHN L. PAUSTIAN Post-Crescent Sports Editor

Much of the drama at Friday's Appleton-Two Rivers track meet occurred after most of the spectators and competitors had left and long after the Terrors had clinched a 90-28 victory.

It was after 6 p.m., and the Terrors' Larry Einspahr, who had already won the pole vault event, sought a new AHS record. The school record, set seven years ago by Dennis Tank, is 12 feet. The bar was set at a 12-1 reading, and Einspahr took off for his record-assault through space. He cleared the barrier with a couple of inches to spare.

Heartbreak set in, however, as the official measurement revealed that the actual height was "only" 11 feet, 11 inches. Einspahr then tried three more times as the bar was moved up two inches — but, with insufficient rest between tries, he failed to make it.

Post 11 Wins Einspahr's victory was one of 11 posted by the Terrors, in notching their third dual-meet success — against one tie and no losses. AHS also had the 12th event — 880-yard relay — "won" when a fumbled baton on the final hand-off obliterated their big lead.

Rick Miller was a surprise double winner for AHS. In running the 100- and 220-yard dashes for the first time in competition, he took both in 10.1 seconds and :23.9, respectively.

Other AHS wins were scored by Gary Volkman, high hurdles; Dennis Brinkman, 880; Dave Nowell, 440; Jim Dunstun, broad jump; Dick Boldt, shot put; Bruce Miller, high jump; John Boyce, discus, and the mile relay team.

Two Rivers wins, in addition to the one in the half-mile relay, were turned in by Tom Rus-boldt, in the low hurdles; and Pete Hlavacek in the mile.

Dunstun won the broad jump for the fourth straight time, with his best distance ever — 21 feet, 6 inches.

The Terrors' Tom Maves and Geoff Garrett suffered their first outdoor losses of the season. Dennis Brinkman out-kicked Maves in the stretch to

Stops Ghosts, 2-0 Clintonville's Raddatz Pitches No-Hit Game

Lee Raddatz of Clintonville, pitched a 2-0 no-hitter against the Kaukauna Ghosts on their home field Friday in a Mid-Eastern Conference game.

Raddatz' performance was marred by four walks. He also registered seven strikeouts.

Kaukauna's Leo Verhagen pitched five runless innings until he allowed two singles in the sixth, which were followed by an error and a fielder's choice scoring the only two runs in the game. Verhagen allowed 4 hits, walked three, and fanned five.

G. Stevenson was the big bat of the game, hitting a triple and single in three times at bat. Pete Korb collected the only other extra base hit, a double.

The loss drops Kaukauna out of a 5-way tie for first place, while Clintonville continues to share first place.

Giants Lose, 4-3 Despite Mays' 2 Home Runs

Dodgers' Osteen Wins; Cards' Gibson Pitches 1-Hitter

BY MIKE RATHER Willie Mays. Willie Mays. Yes, that guy has National League pitchers seeing double again.

Mays, who gets $105,000 a year to parade his talents for the San Francisco Giants, put on another one-man show Friday night by hammering two solo homers in a 4-3 loss to the Los Angeles Dodgers.

That gave Mays five homers in the last four games and a major league-leading total of 10 in just 22 games.

Meanwhile, Bob Gibson of the St. Louis Cardinals, another quick starter, pitched a one-hitter in a 2-0 victory over Philadelphia allowing only a fourth inning single by Johnny Callison as he posted his fifth victory without a loss and his third shutout.

Houston's Dave Giusti also brought his record to 5-0 by grabbing the victory in the Astros' 5-4 triumph over the Chicago Cubs. In the only other game played, Pittsburgh edged Cincinnati 5-4 on Manny Mota's decisive single.

Same as in '64 Mays got off to a fast start last season, hitting well above the .400 mark in the early going. He's currently hitting .356 but in the home run department he's exactly where he was on May 8 last year.

The spurt by Mays, who wound up hitting .296 with 47 homers and 111 runs batted in last season, came at just the right time for the Giants, who were forced to place slugging Orlando Cepeda on the disabled list for 30 days because of his ailing right knee.

Cepeda, who whacked 31 homers while driving in 97 runs last season, underwent surgery on the knee last season but the ailment has been responding slowly and he has been ordered to rest the leg.

The Giants could have used another big bat against the Dodgers with Mays' homers off Claude Osteen in the second and fourth innings providing a 2-0

Cepeda Placed on The Disabled List

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — The San Francisco Giants' star first baseman — Orlando Cepeda — has been placed on the disabled list because of a stiff knee.

Cepeda's surgeon said Friday that another knee operation would not be necessary. The 27-year-old Puerto Rican had cartilage removed from his right knee during the off season.

So far this year he had started only two games. He limped badly when he ran.

The doctor prescribed more rest for Cepeda and putting him on the disabled list will keep him out of the line-up for at least 30 days.

Baisch Breaks Record Kaukauna Wins by 63 Points Over Southwest

Kaukauna swept to a 90's-27½-100 yard dash: 1. Baisch (K) win over a young Green Bay Southwest squad Friday taking first in every event except the mile run and 880 yard relay, from which Kaukauna was disqualified for stepping out of the lane.

The Ghosts' Mike Baisch made a new school record with 22.9 second time in the 220 yard dash. He also took first in the 100 yard dash with a good time of 10.5 seconds.

Sophomore Bob Jansen was another double winner for Kaukauna, taking first in the low hurdles and high hurdles.

4-Run Rally Turns Back Cedar Rapids

CEDAR RAPIDS—The Fox Cities Foxes rallied for four runs in the seventh inning to score an 8-6 victory over Cedar Rapids and to square their Midwest League record at 4-4 here Friday night.

Bob Connolly hit a 2-run single, and Ray Woitkowski socked a 2-run double during the seventh inning uprising that brought the victory to relief pitcher Duane Janne.

Woitkowski enjoyed his second 4-RBI game in three nights, as he also slammed a 2-run triple in the fourth. Connolly batted in a total of three runs, including a sixth-inning homer over the left field wall.

Gary Lutz and Woitkowski each had three hits, while Connolly accounted for two. Lutz drove in the Foxes' eighth run with a third-inning single.

Cedar Rapids started its scoring on a 2-run homer by 6-foot-5 Billy Davis in the first inning. The Cards added single runs in the fourth, fifth, sixth and seventh.

John Sepich, the Foxes' regular second baseman, was called home to Pennsylvania because of the death of his father. Lutz played second base last night.

Has Congress Abdicated Its Rights?

The President's request for an added $700 million earmarked for the Viet Nam conflict galloped through Congress with only seven negative votes in the House and three in the Senate. The response was not really this enthusiastic however. Congressmen were almost unanimous in declaring that the bill was not merely what it appeared to be and assuredly it was not.

The money was readily available from other sources if it were desperately needed to continue — or to expand — the fighting and support in Viet Nam. What the Presidential request which turned out to be a fiat actually meant was that Congress, and through them the people of the United States, wholeheartedly backed the American policies in Viet Nam. This is good strategy to impress the rest of the world with our unanimity in fighting communism; it was not a sound way to maintain our government of checks, balances and constitutional law.

The United States Constitution makes the President Commander in Chief of the armed forces with obvious authority to send them where he wishes. But the authority to declare war rests with Congress. The two are somewhat contradictory but they were certainly intended to maintain some amount of check, one upon the other. To some extent, modern warfare has done away with the check. The immediate need for troops, as was indicated in the Dominican Republic last week, has meant that there is no time for the deliberate debate about war that would take place in Congress. It is probably true that such a declaration of war would come only in the case of direct attack upon the territory of the United States. So by the time any such matter is really debated in Congress there has been a fait accompli and only the means of maintaining it are needed.

This is all the more reason, it seems to us, for both presidential restraint and congressional care. The president has shown no liking for such restraint. His request for approval of the $700 million was, purely and simply, a demand for approval of the American policies in Viet Nam, a "consensus" once again. Congressmen were caught in the middle. Too much dispute over whether or not we ought to be in Viet Nam would play into the hands of the enemy forces and encourage their standing against us. But the hasty votes once again set up future programs of "peace actions," undeclared war literally at the whim of the Commander in Chief.

In his dissent, Senator Nelson, the only Wisconsin congressman to oppose the bill, warned that "at a time in history, when the Senate should be vindicating its historic reputation as the greatest deliberative body in the world, we are stumbling over one another to see who can say 'aye' the quickest and loudest." If as is reported, a lot more Senators are opposed to our fighting a land war in Asia, they did not forward their point of view, or the reputation of Congress for careful and deliberate thought, by the hasty approval.

Perhaps time has passed by the opportunity for such deliberations. But we fear that because 1964 was a presidential election year, a debate on whether or not we should be in Viet Nam never reached either the Congress or the American people. Whether or not the misleading reports from the Departments of State and Defense and our various ambassadors were actually politically motivated or whether they were just wrong, we find the facts disturbing. And while President Johnson has apparently endeavored to present the hard and bitter realities of our war in Viet Nam since the election, it is hard to deny that the policies which have led us deeper and deeper into the active conflict were hushed up and ignored by those who wanted the Democrats to win last November.

The President now has his consensus to show the world the nearly unanimous determination of the American people to take whatever steps are necessary to win in Viet Nam. But constitutional government of checks and balances has received another blow in favor of power and decision making in the executive department.

The Case of the Classified Continental

There is mystery aplenty about a trade deal with the Soviet Union.

Last week the New York Times announced that a special Lincoln Continental limousine, costing $17,000 and equipped with such luxuries as built-in television, had been purchased by Russia for the use of Foreign Minister Andrei Gromyko.

Gromyko was properly surprised. After all the Russians make automobiles too. "Such an idea has never occurred to me. Wherever I go I have the largest cars at my disposal. I am quite happy," and the Soviet Ambassador to France, Valeria Zorin, also tried to shrug the matter off. A Soviet Zinn, he said, "is the largest car in the French capital."

But all the same, according to the Times, a $17,000 Lincoln Continental is

The Right to Travel

The United States Supreme Court has upheld the right of the Department of State to refuse to grant passports to United States citizens to certain areas of the world. Despite the efforts of the majority of the court to make this decision appear quite different from others involving passports in the last few years, there is some nitpicking going on. The real consideration that motivated the majority of the court is the current dangerous international situation.

This particular case involved the application of Louis Zemel of Connecticut for a passport to visit Cuba. The State Department grants such passports only to those whose travel it considers in the best interests of the United States, "such as newsmen or businessmen with previously established business interests." Zemel merely wanted to go, he said, out of curiosity "and to make me a better informed citizen."

The Supreme Court ruled that a 1926 law was pertinent to the effect that "the Secretary of State may grant and issue passports under such rules as the President shall designate and prescribe." Justice Black argued that this law is an unconstitutional delegation of legislative powers to the executive. But the majority decision said that "the fact that a liberty cannot be inhibited without due process of law does not mean that it can under no circumstances be inhibited."

In 1958 the court ruled that the Department of State could not withhold passports from members of the Communist Party because the "right to travel is a part of the 'liberty' of which a citizen cannot be deprived without the due process of law of the Fifth Amendment." Last year the court ruled that a Communist Party member could not by law be prohibited from applying for and obtaining a passport.

But the latest decision makes it clear that the court does not consider the right to travel an absolute one. "Because of the changeable and explosive nature of contemporary international relations, Congress must of necessity paint with a brush broader than it customarily uses," the majority decision states. And Chief Justice Warren said in addition that restrictions are needed "in these turbulent times when explosion after explosion occurs in the world." Even in his dissent Justice Douglas agreed with this point of view, only he didn't consider the danger as great. The right to travel could be restricted only "when some clear countervailing national interest stands in the way. The only so-called danger present here is the Communist regime in Cuba."

An earlier court made much the same sort of choice between individual rights and what it considered real and present dangers when it upheld the internment of thousands of Americans of Japanese descent during World War II. Of course individual liberties must at all times be weighed against wider social dangers they may imply. In ruling that passports could not be denied to Communist Party members, the court was really saying it didn't see much danger in giving them but that now it does see a threat to our national interests in wide open travel to Cuba. This really has little to do with individual rights at all; merely the interpretation of what is dangerous to the United States in the world today.

Of course this has often been a determining factor in Supreme Court decisions throughout our history. What is vaguely disturbing is that some members of the court do not seem to realize it.

AP Special Correspondent

An Asian-African summit conference this summer in Algeria is likely to produce a loud anti-American chorus. But there is every chance that fireworks involving the Soviet-Chinese Communist quarrel will mean the event will do far more damage to world Communism than to the United States.

The West, excluded from the conference, will look on as intensely interested spectators. But probably the Soviet Union too will be on the outside looking in. The way matters shape up now, the Russians already have lost a battle with the Chinese for representation at the meeting.

Thus, the conference may be another phase in the splintering of the world Communist movement. It could bring Moscow and Peking close to a climactic showdown.

This meeting of heads of state, called a "Second Bandung," is scheduled tentatively to open June 29 in Algiers with heads of state and delegations from more than 60 Asian and African nations. But the real fight will take place at the foreign ministers level a week before, when the Russians are expected to lose their battle to be represented as an Asian nation.

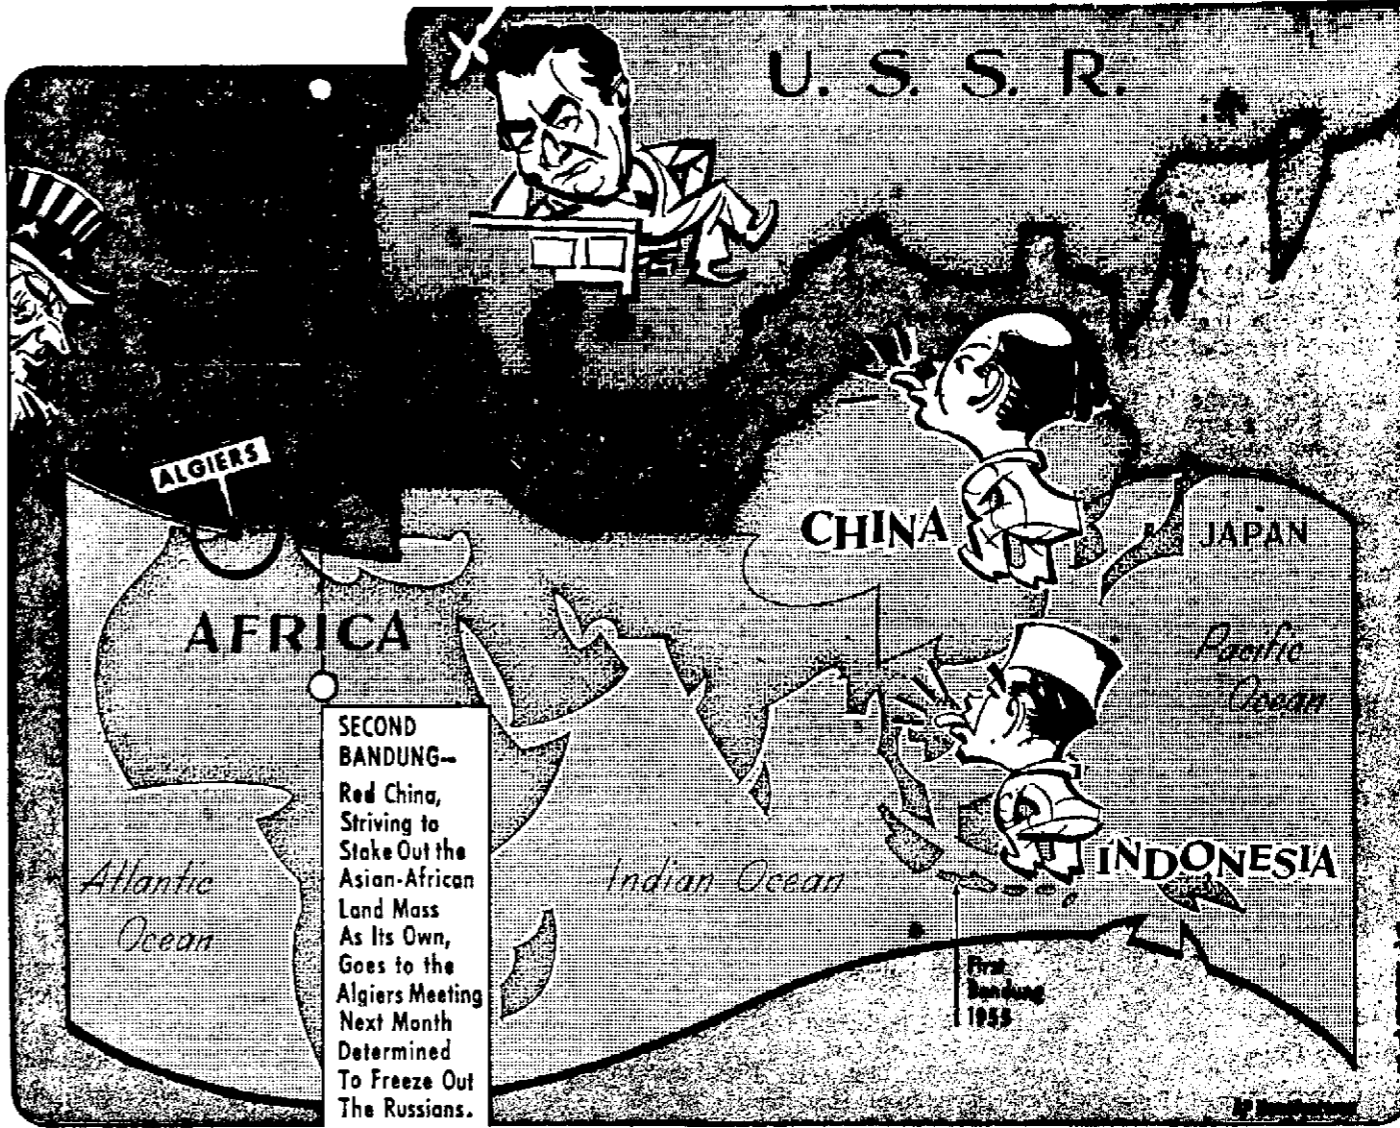

The conference gets its name from a meeting in Bandung, Indonesia, in April, 1955, when political leaders from 29 nations met on "problems of special interest to Asian and African peoples." There were conflicts then, too, but today's are far more meaningful.

CHINESE HAVE UPPER HAND

Indonesia will battle to keep out Malaysia. A number of African nations will try to exclude the Leopoldville Congo. There will be conflicts involving India and China, India and Pakistan, Pakistan and Afghanistan, just to mention a few. But above all, what will be watched will be the continuing battle for influence involving pro-Soviet Communists and the pro-Chinese.

There seems little doubt at this time that the Chinese will dominate.

For months the Chinese have worked diligently through diplomatic channels in Africa and Asia to undermine Soviet prestige and bolster the claim that the U.S.S.R. has no right to be called an Asian nation.

The Red Chinese have been trying to slam the door to Asia in the Russian face, and in Africa have contested with Moscow for influence, patently using racism and mistrust of the white man as a weapon.

The Russians will try hard to get a foot in the door. They will be supported by India and probably some of the new African states, but the Chinese have laid their groundwork well and probably will prevail.

The first Bandung Conference, at a town 75 miles southeast of Indonesia's capital of Jakarta, was initiated by the Colombo Plan nations —

India, Pakistan, Burma, Ceylon and Indonesia — who in 1954 invited representatives of 25 other nations to a meeting.

ISRAEL IS EXCLUDED

Excluded were Israel — to avoid offense to Arab nations — Nationalist China and South Africa. These nations will be excluded again. India and Burma insisted on inviting Red China over Ceylon's objections, but the Ceylonese gave in when Japan also was invited to attend.

Other participants in the original Bandung meeting were Afghanistan, Cambodia, Egypt, Ethiopia, Gold Coast, Iran, Iraq, Jordan, Laos, Lebanon, Libya, Nepal, Philippines, Saudi Arabia, Sudan, Syria, Thailand, Turkey, North Viet Nam, South Viet Nam and Yemen. The conference accomplished little beyond setting up a sounding board for pro-Communist propaganda and building Red China's prestige. It was, however, the beginning of today's Asian-African bloc in the United Nations.

A preliminary "economic seminar" of representatives of more than 60 Asian-African nations in Algiers in March gave an indication of how the political wind was blowing. Red China clearly dominated that meeting.

The economic seminar produced a long series of draft resolutions which echoed slogans seemingly manufactured in Peking. These concerned arms and financial aid to "national liberation movements", a call for breaking relations with "colonialist countries", and advice to new nations to build themselves up by "relying on one's own resources." This has been a defiant Peking slogan ever since the Soviet-Chinese rift led to the withdrawal of Soviet technical and economic aid from China.

The economic seminar also produced a resolution urging that the "Asian-African solidarity movement" be extended to nations of Latin America" and in particular to Cuba."

The baton at this meeting clearly was in the hands of the Chinese. Pro-western voices will be present in June, but in all probability will be drowned out. And so, apparently, will be the pro-Soviet voices.

Wisconsin's Traffic Patrol Still Youthful Organization

BY JOHN WYNGAARD

MADISON — The State Traffic Patrol is a well-led and well-disciplined organization, but like other public service agencies with political problems, it is sometimes unable to distinguish between its activities and its wishes when it files a report to the legislature.

The current annual account of the state constabulary's

Gen. Sherman and Meade will be reviewed by Gen. U. S. Grant in the vicinity of Washington, D. C., at no very distant date. After the review, the troops will be gradually mustered out of service. The regular army is to be recruited and the veteran reserve corps, it is understood, will be retained for provost duty.

work is an attractive and useful recounting of the history of the organization since its creation a quarter of a century ago as a tiny unit that represented then more truly a pious hope than a practical tool for state-wide law enforcement.

Wyngaard

The fact that the Wisconsin State Patrol, unlike those with which Wisconsin drivers are familiar in many other sections of the country, is of such recent origin and has been controlled so cautiously with respect to its manpower authorization is a reflection of the home rule tradition in Wisconsin law enforcement. Until very recently, the idea of a state traffic officer was frowned upon by most of the people of Wisconsin and their legislative representatives. It was only 10 years ago, as this report recalls aptly, that the organization was permitted to grow to the modest size of 250 officers and men.

THE APPEAL

The anniversary report relates that its purpose is to recall what has been done in the past, and "to help provide the necessary background for understanding what Wisconsin requires of its state patrol today and will require in years to come."

As if the hint there is not plain enough, the document continues with a narrative of the growth of state-directed rural enforcement organizations in other states in the country and observes:

"With modern, fast automobiles, and straight, mile-eating highways, the criminal or traffic violator is across county jurisdictional lines in a matter of minutes. The law-abiding motorist likewise traverses numerous such boundaries on a Sunday afternoon drive. He has a right to expect the same level and quality of law enforcement in every section of his travels. The state must provide this uniformity."

As Gov. Warren P. Knowles, head of the state administration in 1965, hesitates about the question of expanding the state patrol, the organization's report recalls in admiring language the insistence of former Gov. Walter J. Kohler in putting over a patrol expansion exactly 10 years earlier against resistance that was basically indistinguishable from the opposition of today. The influential county courthouse officials and their county police are no more willing to concede the need for a larger state enforcement effort now than they were a decade ago.

THE POLITICS

It is perhaps not the function of these civil servants to venture upon such matters, but they could have mentioned some other interesting contrasts between the 1965 and 1955 political attitudes on the subject of road law enforcement.

Ten years ago there was a lingering and perceptible reluctance among liberal and labor-oriented Democrats about state police expansion. There was the old fear of a strike-breaking machinery. Today the Democrats in the State Assembly are insisting upon some concessions from the Republican governor in the direction of more state law enforcement manpower, as a price for their support of Knowles-drafted safety legislation in other directions.

Ten years ago Gov. Kohler, as Republican administration head, could dare in his last term to defy the county courthouse bias against the state patrol, perhaps in part because he had enjoyed good majorities in three previous elections. Today Gov. Knowles hesitates, in his first term, perhaps in recollection of his own slender electoral margin of last fall.

Here's How to Have Fun And Help Charities Too

Editor, Post-Crescent:

Much has already been written and said about how wonderful the musical variety show "Spring Pling '65" is going to be, and that it is to benefit six worthy charities. However, I feel too few people know that these charities are the Appleton Memorial Hospital, the Appleton Public Library, the Community Guidance Center for Outagamie County, the Golden Age Home, St. Elizabeth Hospital and the new Family Y.M.C.A. All are in need of this extra support, and how easy it is to help with such an outstanding performance promised.

Incidentally, if you ask a veteran cigar puffer (male variety) if those little, thin cigars the women are smoking can be accurately called cigars, he will, no doubt, swallow his perfect in his haste to answer a loud no. Then it's too late. Now is the time to realize that here is another fine show, but with the bonus of all the ticket sales going to the above charities. This is worth cancelling other plans to see and support, and the prices are right!

Behind all the rehearsals, publicity and problems of this enormous production, taking nothing away from the talents of Bob Gardner, the director, is a large corps of dedicated and enthusiastic members of the Appleton Junior Women's Club. So hard have they worked that they gained more than enough local business and individual support to meet all their expenses before the first rehearsal! Therefore, when you buy your tickets from any of the members, performers or at the ticket booth in Prange's main entrance, you know that what you pay is all profit to these charities. The best way to show our thanks to the charities and to the Jr. Women's Club is to fill both performances this Friday and Saturday night at the Appleton High School!

It's Mother's Job to Teach Daughter Homemaking Skills

DEAR ANN LANDERS: Yesterday I told my daughter, who is 12 years old, that she must learn to iron her own blouses and skirts. Her reply was, "It is your duty as a mother to keep house and take care of your family. Part of housekeeping is the washing and ironing."

Maurine isn't a spoiled child. She has never been one to sass me. Her grades are very good and everyone remarks on how bright she is.

I did not answer her because I didn't know what to say. I would hate to have my family feel that I am not doing my duty. Is Maurine right? If she is wrong please explain where her reasoning breaks down.—Perplexed Mother

Dear Perplexed: It is a mother's duty to take care of her family. And part of "taking care" of children means teaching them to be self-sufficient and training them to take care of themselves.

A mother isn't doing her children a favor when she allows them to grow up with no household skills.

A girl who can't cook, iron, clean, and sew hems and buttons is severely handicapped. I feel sorry for a young man who selects such a girl for his wife. And I feel even sorer for the girl because learning these skills after marriage can be extremely difficult.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I am writing a few words for the lady who was unhappy because her husband Ben didn't compliment her on the chopped herring. If she is smart she will just stop making chopped herring for a month and see what happens. If Ben doesn't ask for it she should forget the whole thing already because she will never be able to please him.

I had the same problem with kauerkraut and dumplings. Mrs. never got the dumplings yellow or hard enough to suit my Kurt. One time they were hard enough but not yellow enough. The next time they were yellow enough but not hard enough.

used to get so frustrated I'd go into the bathroom and bawl.

Finally, I decided I could never make dumplings to please him so I quit trying. Three weeks later Kurt begged me to try them again so I did. Well, he praised me to the skies—said they were the best dumplings he ever ate. Maybe this will work for Ben's wife. I hope she tries it.—Martha

Dear Martha: Thanks for the hint on how to test a man's interest in special dishes. I agree. And if after a month he doesn't request the dish, forget it.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: Our 10-year-old son is unusually sensitive. Ever since he started school he has said he wants to be a doctor but I'm beginning to wonder if he has the temperament and disposition.

Donald went fishing for the first time last week. He came home very depressed. When I asked what was wrong he said, "I hate to see a fish with a hook in his mouth. He must suffer a lot."

It seems to me I once read that fish do not feel pain because they are cold-blooded creatures. Will you please print something about this in your column so I can show it to my son?—No Expert On Fish sure grasp of bridge fundamentals in this hand at the national tournament.

The contract was five diamonds at both tables, and in both cases West won the first trick with the king of clubs and continued with the three of clubs to the ace.

At the first table East led a third club, and South made the contract. South ruffed the club, cashed the ace of hearts and proceeded to ruff three hearts in the dummy and discarded the other heart on dummy's ace of spades. Since the Gerber team was North-South of this table, the team got credit for scoring a game.

Keener Defense At the second table, where Gerber was East, the defense was keener. Gerber saw that the three of clubs meant that West had started with four of clubs. If West had started with only K-Q-3, he would have led the queen of clubs at the second trick instead of the three of clubs.

Gerbert saw, therefore, that no good could come of leading a club to the third trick. Instead, Gerber shifted to a trump. Now South could ruff only two hearts in the dummy. Eventually, he had to give up a heart trick, going down one.

You don't have to be a tournament expert to know that it's better to defeat a game contract than to let your opponents make it. If our team sticks to tried and true principles of this kind in the world championship we may bring the Bermuda Bowl back to North America late in May for the first time since 1954.

Daily Question Partner opens with 1 NT (16 to 18 points), and the next player doubles. You hold: S K 9 2 H Q 8 3 2 D 10 3 C A 7 4 2. What do you say?

Answer: Redouble. Your 9 points make it clear that your side has 25 points and that the doubler, with 15 points, has stepped right into the middle with a "busted" partner. Don't let him get out with a whole skin.

Lawrence Concert Title 'C'est si bon'

"C'est si bon" is the title of the third annual concert of modern stage band jazz to be presented by members of Phi Mu Alpha Sinfonia music fraternities at 7:30 p.m. today in Lawrence University Memorial Chapel.

This year's program by 19 student musicians will feature two scores by trumpeter Edward Hoffman, recent winner of the Green Bay Symphony Orchestra's Young Artist Competition, and a variety of arrangements from the contemporary jazz repertoire.

Hoffman, a Lawrence junior from Park Ridge, Ill., has contributed arrangements of "Opus Jazz" and "Blue Riff."

Other works are by Gil Evans and Johnny Richards, and settings from the Burklee School of Jazz, Boston, Mass.

The concert follows two earlier Phi Mu programs which explored the development of big band jazz from Dixieland styles to the Stan Kenton variety of the 1940's, and highlights of the Leed's Stage Band arrangements of the 10 years after 1950.

Council Can Choose Paper If None Published in City

Judge Cane Rules Statutes Need Clarification by State Legislature

OSHKOSH — Statutes regarding publication of official city notices and council proceedings in the city newspaper published in the city, Circuit Judge Arnold J. Cane said Friday in his decision as to publication of City of Menasha official proceedings.

The decision was filed Friday in the case of Thomas J. Fink of Menasha against the city officials of Menasha and the Twin City News-Record as to whether the News-Record was qualified to bid on the Menasha official publications.

Judge Cane earlier in the week announced what his decision would be so that the councils of Menasha and Neenah would have the answer prior to their opening bids Tuesday noon for the official publications of the proceedings. He filed the written decision Friday.

Recognize Need

It had been hoped, he stated in his decision, that the legislative sessions since 1963 would have recognized the need in this area, but, notwithstanding pending bills, it has so far failed to act, Judge Cane continued.

"It is, of course, necessary to decide this case not on what the court thinks the law ought to be but what the present law, confusing as it might be, is."

The Circuit Judge agreed with City Atty. Richard J. Steffens of Menasha that if there is no need clarifying by the Legislature, Circuit Judge Arnold J. Cane said Friday in his decision in whatever manner the as to publication of City of Menasha official proceedings.

Conflicting Statutes

Judge Cane stated that confusion exists because of many seemingly conflicting sections of the statutes.

Judge Cane cited a Supreme Court decision which stated that a newspaper was first published where it is first distributed and in the case of the Twin City News-Record that place was in Appleton and in case of the Oshkosh Daily Northwestern that place was in Oshkosh.

In refuting a claim by the Oshkosh Daily Northwestern attorney that the Post-Crescent should be barred from bidding because it was not published in Winnebago County, Judge Cane said his analysis of the section quoted by the Oshkosh attorney failed to reveal that the intention of the section cited was to require notices to be published in a newspaper in the county. He agreed that a conflict of laws might be involved.

Conflict of Law

Where there is a conflict of laws, or let us say in this case uncertainty because of several

4-Story Home Urged for Pleasant Acres

Population Growth Long Waiting List Create Space Need

OSHKOSH — Trustees of the Winnebago County Institutions Thursday afternoon asked the institutions committee for a four-story building as the New Pleasant Acres Home.

Supv. Robert Skalmoski, finance committee chairman, asked the institutions committee to bring in a recommendation as to whether the building would be three or four stories high so that the proper amount may set forth in the bond issue.

The trustees Thursday, in a joint meeting with the institutions committee, asked that the building be a four-story structure. They said they based this request on the number of persons on the waiting list, the population growth of the county and studies which they have made on the need for maximum care housing of geriatric patients.

The committee took no action on the request but may at next Thursday's joint meeting with the trustees.

The committee had planned on taking bids for both a three- and four-story building and then letting the county board decide which of the two structures it desired to build.

William O. Vogel, institutions superintendent, said Hill-Burton funds would not be available for Pleasant Acres home construction because of fund shortages.

Police Take Perfume Filled Pistols, Shaving Soap Cans From Youths

Cans of shaving soap and water pistols filled with perfume were confiscated by police who were called to a special spring initiation dance at the "Den", 131 S. Oneida St., Friday night.

Police said about 200 young people were "milling around" outside the dance and some of the youths were blowing the shaving soap and shooting the pistols.

A patrolman was assigned special duty at the dance and police told authorities that reports of the incident would result in cancelling the dance.

Police also learned that a shaving soap war had been apparently waged in a rear entrance area of the Irving Zuelke building, 103 W. College Ave.

However, the area was later cleaned by youths armed with mops and buckets of water who had been sent to the area by YMCA officials.

"Art Is the Flower of Creativity" and also the theme of the Tullar School Art Show, Neenah, at 7:15 p.m. Tuesday. # Appleton Youth Hurt When Bike Hits Curbing

A bicyclist was admitted to Appleton Memorial Hospital Friday shortly after his bicycle hit a curbing, tossing him to the ground in the 1200 block of W. Prospect Avenue.

Ricky Penno, 9, son of Mr. and Mrs. Richard Penno, 632 W. Prospect Ave., received arm and head injury and was taken to the hospital by Lindy's Ambulance Service. Appleton police said the youth struck his head on the curbing.

John Monroe, 35, of Green Bay, was treated and released from St. Elizabeth Hospital where he had been treated for injuries he received when he fell from a ladder at the Kimberly-Clark mill in Kimberly. He was taken to the hospital by Larry's Ambulance Service.

A St. Joseph School student was injured while at recess, not track practice as stated in Thursday's Post-Crescent. The youth was taken to St. Elizabeth Hospital with possible wrist fractures where he is still confined with his injuries.

Gift Makes Purchase of Land Possible

NEENAH — Approval for purchase of the Tolverson property for $30,000 was given by the common council Wednesday evening.

The property, next to the public library on the corner of E. Wisconsin Avenue and Oak Street, will be used for city purposes.

The property will be purchased with a gift of $17,000. The remaining money in the amount of $13,000 will be financed over a one year period.

The council appropriated $600 to make test borings in the area known as Quarry Park. The property is a former quarry between Lauden Boulevard and Belmont Street and Mitchell and Cedar streets.

The area has been filled. The test boring will determine feasibility of construction on the site.

A resolution approving the Third Green Acres plat was passed as an extension of Meadow Lane from Evans Street to Gay Drive.

An ordinance amending the street extension map was approved. The extensions will be in the Swatscheno farm, the site of the new James B. Conant Junior High School.

Youths Receive Driving Privilege Suspensions

NEENAH — Three juveniles each had their driving privileges suspended by Judge James Sarres in Juvenile Traffic Court Thursday.

David G. Lloyd Jr., 16, 727 Chestnut St. entered a plea of guilty to speeding 41 miles per hour in a 25 mile zone at 1:40 p.m. on First Street, from Forest to Oak streets.

Scott A. Butterfield, 17, 531 S. Commercial St., will be forced to wait 60 days before applying for his drivers license after pleading guilty to driving a motor bike on city streets while in possession of a temporary driving permit. He was cited May 1 at 1:11 a.m. A temporary permit requires a licensed driver to be riding with the student.

Scott L. Henry, 17, Route 1, Larsen, entered a plea of guilty to operating a car 43 mph in a 25 mile speed zone in the 1100 block on Harrison Street at 4:05 p.m. April 7. His driving privilege was revoked for 60 days.

Black Storm Clouds of Misfortune Gather Over Heads of T-C Pair

BY MICK BURKE
Post-Crescent Staff Writer

NEENAH — MENASHA — Two small black storm clouds, one in Neenah and the other in Menasha, are hovering over two comely blondes. The clouds aren't related but the blondes are.

The young ladies, Mrs. Beverly Vanderlois, 512 Elm St., Menasha, and her aunt, Lorraine "Frankie" Saegert, 203 1/2 Mathewson St., Menasha. Both are waitresses, one in Menasha and the other in Neenah respectively.

Dame Fortune turned her back on the pair early this spring. The "atmospheric accumulation" appeared over "Frankie's" head when her nephew had an accident with her car.

No injuries were received in the mishap, the only tragedy being it was her only means of transportation and the car was rendered useless. The age of the car made repairs out of the question, a new car was the solution. A little red foreign car was the answer.

Prior to the delivery of her first new car, "Frankie" borrowed a similar make from a friend. She desired to do a little practicing with the smaller vehicle. As her previous car was equipped with an automatic transmission, she wanted to practice using the clutch and shifting.

Life seemed quite bright, she counted the days for the arrival of the new car. Her handling of the friend's car became most proficient, she was driving like a veteran. While stopped at the cross-walk on West Wisconsin Avenue she was "cllobbered" by a car twice her size that approached from the rear. In the meantime a brand new car sat begging to be driven. The mix-up was finally straightened out and the license came late.

"Frankie" had the feel of the little "bomb" and life again was worth living. Then, one day the car was parked along the curb in a Menasha residential area, and it was sideswiped by a hit-and-run driver. The insurance

Fox Cities Area Plumbers Get 70 Cents Over 2 Years

Soft, Pain-Soothing Talk

Policeman, Injured Boy, 4, Alone Together in Spite of Spectators

BY RAY PY
Post-Crescent Staff Writer

An injured boy, lying sore and bruised under some borrowed blankets in the middle of a street near his home, was the only who could hear what was going on.

An Appleton policeman, his uniform dirtied from leaning in the dirty street over the youth, talked softly, only to the boy.

Perhaps he talked of things a boy wanted to hear: about baseball because that was what the policeman knew best.

Maybe he talked of running and playing with his brothers and sisters, or of being a "big boy" so that he wouldn't cry and the pain wouldn't hurt so much.

Very Alone

The boy, Pat Kain, 4 years old, was very much alone with the policeman in the street, although, over 50 spectators crowded close by.

Moments before the boy had dashed from his brother's hands into the path of a car in front of his house at 718 W. Loraine St., because, perhaps he wanted to see the fire engine only two blocks away.

He hit the side of a car, and some witnesses said, the car tires rolled over his tiny legs.

The Appleton policeman who talked softly, left the lonely boy only once, to call again for an ambulance. Then he returned to his side.

Perhaps he talked of something funny, for the policeman, at other times, when he is with friends, is a funny man.

He tells a joke with the wave of his hands and with a smile that spreads over his face.

If the boy was listening to stories the policeman told about when he played baseball with the Fox Cities Foxes, he probably forgot a short time about the pain in his legs.

The policeman left his friend when the ambulance arrived and helped the boy's mother into the front seat of the vehicle. He told the lady her son was going to the hospital and that everything would be all right.

"God bless you," the woman sobbed. "God bless you and I don't even know your name."

His name is Patrolman Philip Condu.

High School Youths Questioned on Damage To Cars in Appleton

Several high school youths are being questioned today regarding vandalism to four parked cars on various streets in the city Friday night. The youths were traced through a witness who described the car in which they were riding.

Police said they received reports from four motorists who discovered car mirrors broken and windshields smashed and cracked about 10 p.m. Friday.

Police went to the home of one of the youths and obtained a statement from him and planned to question other youths today.

4-Year-Old Dashes in Front of Car

Excitement of a fire in the neighborhood, fire trucks and an accumulation of heavy traffic persons were injured on Commercial side streets, may have been a factor in the traffic injury of about 4:47 p.m.

Injured were the driver of one from his older brother into the car, Rosemary Kuse, 17, 1507 N. path of a car in front of his Ullman St., and her passenger home on W. Lorain Street about 6 p.m. Friday.

Pat Kain, 4, son of Mr. and Mrs. Gordon Kain, 718 W. Loraine St., received leg and body injuries and other bruises, when he dashed in front of a McGil, 71, 1712 N. Superior St., car being driven by Mrs. Sandra S. Lange, 308 W. Brewster St.

The accident occurred about two blocks from the corner of Packard and Bennett streets where firemen and power company workers were putting finishing touches on a gas leak fire and explosion.

Holding His Hand
Witnesses said the boy was standing in his driveway holding his older brother's hand, when he dashed into the street and hit the side of the car. The boy bounced off the car and struck his head.

Mrs. Lange said she saw the boy on the sidewalk but did not see him dash into her path. She said she heard a thud and stopped the car.

Witnesses told police the woman was driving slowly and from the formula that Gardner could not have prevented the accident.

Police who had been assisting in the scene to give temporary aid to the injured youth. He was taken to Appleton Memorial Hospital by Lindy's Ambulance Service.

Strike Ends During Long Night Session

A five-week strike of union plumbers and steamfitters ended in the Fox Cities region today, capping a marathon overnight bargaining session between union and management negotiators.

Richard Murphy, spokesman for the Central Valley Plumbing and Heating Assn., and Roland Choudoir, representing Local 458, confirmed that the 1965 contract dispute had been settled.

The union settled for a 70-cent per hour increase to be spread out over a two-year period, 1965 and 1966.

Management and union bargainers started another round of negotiations at the Conway Motor Hotel with Federal Mediator Philip Simon at 7:30 p.m. Friday, and agreement was reached shortly after 3 a.m. today.

More Issues

Ratification of the agreement hammered out during the night was reported at union headquarters this morning by Choudoir.

Both sides in the dispute indicated there are still four non-economic issues to be negotiated, including doubletime for overtime work on weekdays, elimination of night shift work, apprenticeship policies and an industry advancement-education program.

The union agreed to authorize its 180 members to return to work for their employers under terms of the old contract which had been terminated by the contractors April 1. It will be in effect until a 1965 contract is signed.

However, it was indicated by both management and union spokesmen that it would take at least a week, and possibly two, before things return to normal. Many union plumbers and steamfitters obtained employment elsewhere where union contracts were in effect.

Contractors affected by the walkout included several in the Fox Cities and others in Outagamie, Waupaca, Shawano and parts of Winnebago counties.

As of April 17, the union was asking $133 per hour wage increase over a three year period and the association offered 50 cents for the same period.

Murphy said the contractors would do everything possible to get things back to normal with a minimum of delay. Choudoir pledged the union's cooperation both agreeing it would take a week or more.

Under terms of the agreement, the union workers will get a 35-cent package (per hour increase) the first year, including 25 cents in wages, 5 cents vacation, 3 cents health-welfare and 2 cents on paid holidays.

The second year package of 35 cents, starting April 1, 1966, consists of 20 cents in wages and 15 cents pension fund.

Local 458 and the Central Valley Contractors were the last to resolve contract differences in the Fox Valley. Previously, the union at Oshkosh received 34 cents for one year, raising the pay to $4.28 per hour and Fond du Lac got 25 cents, also $4.28.

Members of Local 458, according to Choudoir, will get $4.47 this year and the equivalent of $4.82 per hour in 1966.

The home is occupied by the Thomas Dercks and Kenneth Verhoven families.

Director Bob Gardner's Show Only 3 Weeks Rehearsing

Appleton Junior Woman's Club's 'Spring Fling '65' Is Spectacular

BY JAY JOSLYN
Post-Crescent Sunday Editor

One word describes the Appleton Junior Woman's Club's "Spring Fling '65" and it is spectacular.

Bob Gardner of the New York production firm of Jerome H. Carigill is billed as the director, but anyone seeing the show and realizing it has been in rehearsal for a bare three weeks knows that he is really a magician.

From the time the superb band gathered by Gerald Jensen opened the overture, building on the wonderful walking bass of Steven Schultz, the far-from-capacity opening night house at Appleton High School knew that it was in for an evening of real entertainment.

Cast of 150
Advanced notices indicated that there would be a cast of 150 and the stage certainly was filled with people. Although their very number makes the production an interesting one, the number also prevents distributing all of the accolades earned.

Most of the major headliners were singers and a run-down of those who graced the spotlight with wonderful talent will have to suffice, although it must be understood that they were only the "front" people.

Perhaps the most captivating spotlight dwellers were Marve Name Society of Holy Cross and Arlene Zelony in two

Eastern District Bench

Former Gov. Reynolds Believed to Be in Line for Pending Judgeship

Post-Crescent Madison Bureau

MADISON — Does former Gov. John W. Reynolds of Green Bay have an assurance of appointment to a federal judgeship in the eastern district of Wisconsin as a part of the arrangement under which he was passed over by President Johnson in favor of James Doyle of Madison for the western federal district court?

The Post-Crescent Madison Bureau is able to report authoritatively that

There is no explicit promise about such a prize appointment to the former Democratic governor.

Informal Understanding
Most of the top men in the Wisconsin Democratic party believe there is such an informal understanding and that Reynolds will be on the federal bench in eastern Wisconsin before the end of the year.

Reynolds will soon transfer his residence from Madison to Milwaukee in anticipation of such an appointment.

The belief that Reynolds will win the judgeship he desires is based upon the fact that the justice department carefully screened the backgrounds of Doyle and Reynolds during recent weeks, and interviewed many of the leading lawyers, judges and other public men in the state about each.

Another Vacancy
The department would not have gone to such lengths to become informed about Reynolds when the decision about

Doyle's western district appointment had already been made, except that it expected another vacancy to open up for the former governor, according to that reasoning.

The supposition that there will be a vacancy in the eastern district relatively soon is based upon two factors. Judge Kenneth Grubb, one of the two judges in the eastern district now sitting and a Republican appointee of the Eisenhower period, will become eligible for retirement in the fall and has reportedly confided his intention to retire to the justice department.

Moreover, there is pending in the Congress a bill to create a third judgeship in the Wisconsin Eastern district, which will be
